Immigrant Integration: Bridging the Cultural Gap
Introduction

Silicon Valley Community Foundation is a catalyst and leader for innovative solutions to our region’s most challenging problems. Two of these challenging problems – the successful integration of immigrants and the inability of receiving communities to understand and recognize immigrants as real and potential assets in the community rather than as liabilities – are addressed through our immigrant integration strategy. To better understand our goals and objectives for this strategy, we encourage you to read the community foundation’s research paper on the topic at http://www.siliconvalleycf.org/content/immigrant-integration.

The immigrant integration strategy has a three-pronged approach: (1) strengthening the legal services infrastructure, which seeks to address the need for affordable and reliable immigration legal services provided by nonprofit community organizations; (2) adult English language acquisition, which seeks to promote English instruction, coordination and best practices among community colleges, adult education schools, and community-based organizations; and (3) bridging the cultural gap, which seeks to leverage established two-way educational programs that allow non-immigrant communities and immigrants and their receiving communities, to learn about the diverse immigrant populations in Silicon Valley. This request for proposals, or RFP, focuses specifically on bridging the cultural gap. By using an RFP approach, the community foundation aims to solicit the best thinking of nonprofit service providers, public sector agencies, research institutions and other entities serving San Mateo and Santa Clara counties.

Responses to this RFP are due by 5 p.m. on Friday, May 4, 2012.

Problem Statement

Silicon Valley is an immigrant demographic microcosm of the United States. In Silicon Valley, one-third of our residents are immigrants, nearly half of our workforce is foreign-born and close to two-thirds of those under the age of 18 are the children of immigrants. Given this demographic reality, a new social model of immigrant integration – one that promotes mutual benefits for immigrants and their receiving communities and that allows newcomers enhanced civic participation and improved economic mobility – is critical.

A key challenge to immigrant integration is the reluctance of many in receiving communities to understand and recognize immigrants as real and potential assets in the community rather than as liabilities. Conversely, newcomers may have cultural misunderstandings and misperceptions about their receiving community which may create barriers to integration and community building.

Program Goal

Putting a human face on complex immigration issues through powerful tools such as video, art, technology and other media can educate and inform policymakers, business, clergy, civic leaders, foundations and the general public about immigrants and their receiving communities. The community foundation sees the full spectrum of arts and culture as an instrument for social change.

Bridging the cultural gap is important as newcomers begin to navigate the norms and regulations of education, health and wellness, labor and financial systems; and the receiving community learns, adapts and teaches newcomers how best to use their strengths in the community. Multi-dimensional communications campaigns, with partners that value cultural competency and diversity in terms of racial and cultural backgrounds, can bring rich and varied immigrant integration experiences to life and illustrate the human consequences of policy decisions in a way that statistics and words alone can not.

The community foundation will provide funding for multi-faceted communications campaigns that:

- Deliberately seek to engage audiences not already involved in immigrant integration programs.
- Have specific community and/or policy-based objectives, which are clearly defined and articulate how building new relationships with community groups will further immigrant integration in our region.
- Share accurate information about cultures and people, combined with frank discussions to eliminate misunderstandings and misperceptions that can create barriers to integration and community-building.
- Raise questions, share concerns and engage in a dialogue to create authentic relationships and raise understanding about immigration, race, education and other community issues.
- Help participants identify shared interests and create shared experiences, with the willingness to constructively address differences that arise along the way.
- Can be sustained and are well-integrated into existing organizational programming ensuring long-term application within the community.

Given the opportunity to leverage established two-way educational programs that allow immigrants and their receiving communities to learn about the diverse immigrant populations in Silicon Valley, the community foundation may also provide funding for:

- Communication campaigns (e.g., art, video, print, photography) in pilot cities to convene city and county-wide dialogues on race, culture, immigration and/or religion. These dialogues will aim to bring residents together to work on understanding different cultures and help people build trusting relationships necessary for long-term change and community decision-making.
- Communication campaigns (e.g., art, video, print, photography) to increase community awareness and education about legal support services, the importance of voter participation and issues of health, education, immigration and housing and to promote greater civic engagement in community life.
- Priority will be given to organizations that demonstrate clear understanding of how their proposed project advances their existing goals and a community strategy or agenda, including having a dedicated amount of staff time to the project and a clear plan for how to measure its success.

The community foundation will gauge success according to one or more of these indicators: change in knowledge, awareness, and appreciation of immigrants’ experiences and issues, organizational capacity for and use of technology (e.g., social media) to disseminate immigrants’ stories, increase in immigrant and receiving community support, engagement, and/or advocacy for immigrants’ issues.

Proposal Eligibility Criteria

- San Mateo and/or Santa Clara County-serving organizations. Organizations headquartered outside the two-county region must demonstrate significant service to the area.
- Organizations with a 501(c)(3) designation, those that have a fiscal sponsor with a 501(c)(3) designation, public agencies, collaborations of nonprofit and public agencies, or other entities that have a designated charitable purpose.
- Organizations that do not discriminate based on race, color, national origin, citizenship status, creed, religion, religious affiliation, age, gender, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, disability, veteran status or any other protected status under applicable law. If an organization only serves a specific population, e.g., women or specific ethnic populations, the community foundation will consider the proposal on a case-by-case basis.
- Organizations with religious affiliations will be considered for funding only if the project for which they seek support attempts to address the needs of the wider community without regard to religious beliefs.
Project Proposal Characteristics

We are receptive to concrete, practical and impactful project proposals that:

- Include both well-tested models that can be scaled up or expanded regionally while maintaining local relevance, and new pilots that, if successful, can be grown and replicated.
- Benefit from collaborative work and bring public and private partners together with nonprofit organizations.
- Demonstrate knowledge of the sector and its trends.
- Identify target population to be reached and justification for that focus.
- Provide clear benchmarks for measuring progress.
- Seek to collaborate with and build upon the efforts of other Bridging the Cultural Gap projects funded by the community foundation.
